Subject: Settlement/Education?

As a Mac and PC user (who enjoys the Microsoft office products and also would not like see them break up the company), I am also baffled that a settlement imposed against Microsoft for breaking the law should allow, even encourage, them to unfairly make inroads into education or into any other field.

If any settlement is to be made in this direction, in all fairness, it should be that Microsoft pays for the other companies to provide their hardware and software. In the case of the schools it should be Apple and for other settlements it should be other software manufacturers.

Just my two cents on a subject that I know has many facets to be dealt with. Good luck.
